Riders in for a Special Treat at The Iron Horse Hotel™

Location, amenities make it a once-in-a-lifetime stay for motorcycle enthusiasts

MILWAUKEE, WI (September 2008) – Until now, lodging options for motorcycle enthusiasts included no-frills yet friendly motels that catered to riders or higher-end hotels without any amenities for travelers arriving on two wheels. And while a quick Google search for “motorcycle hotels” revealed options in Belgium, France, Austria and the U.K., no domestic luxury hotels geared to the 20 million American riders.

The Iron Horse Hotel opened in Milwaukee, representing the industry’s first boutique hotel designed with both the business traveler and the discriminating motorcycle enthusiast in mind.

“We are a leisure market segment that travels by our very nature, yet no high-end hotels are offering the special amenities we need,” said hotel owner Tim Dixon of Dixon Development, a rider himself and frequent business traveler.

The Iron Horse Hotel is located in downtown Milwaukee across the river from the new Harley-Davidson Museum. The museum is expected to exceed 350,000 to 500,000 visitors a year, bringing a need for more rooms.

Motorcycle enthusiasts are in for a treat at the hotel with amenities geared to keep riders and their bikes dialed in.

Anticipating your arrival

The Iron Horse Hotel offers covered motorcycle parking, rag bins and check-in carts – perfect for transporting saddle bag contents to your room. There’s an on-site bike wash, an on-premise retailer with travel essentials and rider accessories, and maintenance kits with standard tools available on demand. Guests are greeted at check-in with a special bag complete with an Iron Horse Hotel skull cap, sun screen and lip balm. We’ll even pack a lunch for your saddle bag, provide ride routes and suggest bike-friendly spots throughout the area.

After the ride

The Iron Horse Hotel lobby, a stunning display of American Industrial era architecture, is designed to greet guests whether in high heels or dirty boots. Sink into custom leather furniture, durable enough for zippers and buckles. Enjoy a beer, grab a bite to eat or check out the views of downtown and the Harley-Davidson Museum. An outdoor patio offers the perfect gathering place to exchange stories from the day. And there are even rejuvenation spa services.

Customized room amenities

A tile entrance to each of the 100 oversized loft-style rooms features custom hooks for hanging heavy leathers, heavy shelves for helmets and benches made from reclaimed wood from the building for removing and storing boots. A comfy pillow-top bed, an all-tile walk-in shower and wall-mounted flat-screen TVs greet road-weary travelers.

While not a themed hotel, the décor features subtle references to motorcycle culture. Leather accented by nail head trim, evocative of steel rivets. Patterns in the fabric inspired by tattoo art. Snakeskin carpets guide you through the corridors.

Adjoining rooms offer even more space for groups and the top-floor Iron Horse Hotel suites, complete with rooftop views of the city, offer an unforgettable stay. From its location to the jaw-dropping array of amenities, The Iron Horse Hotel offers a truly authentic and memorable experience.
